Cool Tea Party Suits Teen Ag For Warm Weather Entertai

Summer calls for a cool tea party for the teen-age to teen-agers "cool" has a special meaning. It is a w gests the highest praise, describing something that made it.

Obviously, a cool tea party calls for a cooling drink nothing cooler, in either the conventional or the teen word, than a tall glass of iced tea. When you use Nestea, the 100% pure instant tea, it's even cooler senses of the word.

In terms of temperature, this tea is the coolest of teas because it dissolves instantly in cold tap water make instant iced tea anywhere there's a water supply seconds—on the porch or at the picnic ground going near a stove. And you can regulate its strength your taste: a rounded teaspoon to a glass of water strength instant tea, but just add a little more or you like your tea some other way.

In terms of teen-agers, Nestea is cool because it's a it-yourself drink that pleases the whole gang and is cooperative party. Somebody brings the rolls, brings the hamburger meat, somebody brings the ch —and the hostess provides a big pitcher of tea. T hostess off with an easy assignment, because she pitcher of instant tea in seconds.

Besides the refreshments, what else does it take to tea party? Records, of course. And, like the refreshm cords should be provided cooperatively. Let every gue few favorites. That way, each member of the party chance to hear what he likes best. If the group feels so much the better. As a teen-ager might put it, the pa jumping.

Plans For Civil War Centennial Include Church Groups

Washington, D. C.- Twenty-five thousand copies of a booklet designed to organize the churches of America behind the five-year Civil War Centennial program soon will be placed in the mails from the National Headquarters here. They will go to all parts of the nation, to address chaps, without regard to locality or faith.

Entitled, "The Role of Religion in the Civil War Centennial," the booklet offers a list of sugested Centennial activities for religious organizations, including both the clergy and lay groups. It also offers a bibliography to aid in preparing such programs.

In a letter accompanying the booklet, Major General U. S. Grant III, chairman of the National Commission, has invited the churches to cooperate "in an undertaking which cannot fail to provide inspiration to all Americans."

"Far beyond the educational historical features planned in many localities," he explained, "the National Commission desires to impress upon our own people and upon those in other lands, the tremendous significance of the spiritual aspects of the great struggle, as well as what were our losses and our gains. The important thing for us to remember is that all those men who fought were fighting for principles."

We Share... FREEDOM!

Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution, never to violate in the least particular, the laws of the country, and never tolerate their violation by others.

As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and laws let every American pledge his life, his property and his sacred honor.

Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father, and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty.

Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap.

Let it be taught in the schools, in seminaries and in colleges. Let it be written in primers, spelling-books and in almanacs.

Let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice; and in short, let it become the political religion of the nation.

And let the old and the young, the rich and the poor, the grave and the gay of all sexes and tongues and colors and conditions, sacrifice unceasingly upon its altars.—Abraham Lincoln.
